

Leah (Leahviathan)

Gamer, Twitch Streamer, Content Creator & Host

Named by British Vogue as one of the Power Players of the gaming industry, Leah is one of the top UK presenters helping shape the space. Leah established herself on Twitch in 2015 as a variety streamer and has since amassed over 175k followers on Twitch alone. As an avid gamer, Leah is fully immersed in the gaming industry, leading her to work with some of the top brands and developers in the space. Through 2017-2019 she worked for Xbox UK as a presenter and live-stream coordinator, before returning to full-time streaming and presenting in 2020. She has since presented regularly for Forza Monthly and hosted the very popular Dying 2 Know-series for Techland in anticipation of the release of hit game, Dying Light 2. Leah is currently an ambassador for Logitech Gaming and streams regularly every week on her Twitch channel. In 2022 Leah was an Ambassador for XL Esports and is currently sitting on the committee for Women in Esports. Leah has worked with a number of the top brands in and outside of gaming including, Ford, Xbox, Playstation, Bungie, Asus, Wizards of the Coast and many more. Outside of gaming, Leah is a passionate guitar player and lover of all things Alt-rock and Metal Music. This has led to her collaborating with Activision Blizzard, Crazy Pig Designs and NME on a global campaign in support of the release of Diablo Immortal, culminating in attending Download Festival to collaborate with headlining band, Bury Tomorrow.
