

Nuala O'Leary

Producer

Nuala graduated from the National Film and Television School's producing course and has extensive knowledge of all aspects of feature film and television production.

She joined Raindog Films in 2015 as a Creative Executive responsible for developing the feature film and television slate. Nuala then joined Left Bank Pictures in 2017, working as a producer on the action-adventure show STRIKE BACK for two seasons before series producing the final season.

Nuala has comprehensive experience in setting up high-end television series. She most recently worked with Drama Republic on the Amazon financial thriller HAVEN, starring Sophie Turner.

Alongside practical production, Nuala is seasoned in running writers' rooms, overseeing editorial script teams and continuing script development throughout the shooting process. In recent years, she has specialised in projects with complex demands across practical action elements and VFX.

Nuala maintains a small slate of her own film and television projects, with a love for female-centred adventure, thriller and horror stories in particular.
